Bemannia wins procurement for 400 million SEK to the Military Authorities

Bemannia came out victorious of the hard struggle against 16 companies, the market's major actors participating in the procurement of manning services to the Military Authorities. The assignment entails the Military Authorities, The Military Authorities Equipment Department (FMV and the Total Defence's Research institute (FOI) and covers the whole of Sweden.

The areas covered by the manning agreement are Office/Administration, Staff, IT, Economy/Finance and Warehouse/Supply. The Military Authorities is represented at several locations in Sweden and the result of the procurement means that Bemannia expands further by opening more offices around Sweden. The agreement time runs to February 2014 with an option for another 2 years.

Winning such a large and qualified frame agreement is another feather in Bemannia's cap. We will take a large step forward in our development and the future looks very exciting.

- This procurement was the first we participated in with the shape of a live-auction running for 12 hours and 45 minutes at a stretch after which we came out victorious and ranked as number 1 in the agreement areas – Office/Administration, Staff, Economy/Finance and Warehouse/Supply as well as ranked as number 3 within IT, says Bemannia's general manager Staffan Bruzelius.

The Military Authority's function is controlled by assignments from the government and entails among other things goals and requirements of results. The Military Authority should primarily safeguard Sweden's values and interests. By their own and together with others by actions both in Sweden, in the immediate surroundings and outside it. The Military Authority supports the society at catastrophes and sends units to peace keeping and peace forcing actions throughout the world. Partly for helping others and partly to support Swedish safety politic interests. The Military Authority's unique competence is armed battle.
