Professional segment newbie – The Architectura toilet with a concealed attachment

Boasting clear lines and sophisticated functionality, the Villeroy & Boch Architectura system range is set to become even more versatile: the range has been joined by a round, wall-mounted DirectFlush toilet with a concealed attachment that provides professional planners with additional design options and impressive hygienic benefits.

The contemporary, pared-down design makes the toilet the perfect solution for public and private sanitary projects of any size. The rimless DirectFlush technology is also hygienic and cost-efficient as DirectFlush toilets are very easy to clean and save water. The fully glazed toilet bowl can be flushed completely without any splashing thanks to the special splashguard at the top of the bowl and the intelligent flushing system. Consuming just 3 or 4.5 litres per flush, the modern flushing technology ensures maximum flushing efficiency and thorough cleaning. And as the conventional attachment grooves are concealed, it is also quicker and easier to clean the outside of the bowl.

Planners and architects will find the right toilet in the Architectura range for any building project. This collection offers wall-mounted models in standard, compact and comfortable XL versions and an extra-long Architectura Vita toilet with a 700 mm projection for accessible bathroom design. There are also a host of floor-standing toilets and toilet combinations. This shows that customised, forward-looking toilet solutions can meet all requirements for space, comfort and hygiene.
