Dallas SEO Expert Qamar Zaman Helps Law Firms Prepare for Google Core Web Vitals Update

This resource from the Dallas based SEO Expert for law firms explains the upcoming Google Page Experience Update and what one needs to do in order to prepare.

Google's next algorithm update, set to roll out mid-June, may push some previously well-performing websites to the bottom of search engine results pages (SERPs).

Dallas, TX -- The new update is difficult to navigate without in-depth knowledge of the technical side of website development. Dallas-based SEO industry expert Qamar Zaman, whose digital growth strategy consultancy, KissPR, serves an international client base, provides a resource to guide small businesses and brands through the highly technical changes.

“You still have ample time before Google rolls out the Page Experience Algorithm Update in the middle of June,” Zaman advises, “Learning the top factors that cause poor CWV score is the first step in determining website issues so that you can come up with the right solutions to improve page experience.”

To provide key insight into the importance of Core Web Vitals (CWV) score in a website’s search engine performance and capability for ranking, the Forbes Agency Council member has created a free resource, which also explains what each metric means and how to boost each score.

Google’s PageSpeed Insights provides a Core Web Vitals (CWV) score, which is based on a set of speed metrics that affect user experience. A website’s page experience is influenced by its mobile-friendliness, privacy and security, and interstitials. Google’s CWV metrics fall under three main categories – LCP (loading), FID (interactivity), and CLS (visual stability).

“To improve your website’s CWV score, you need to learn the negative factors that affect the score of each metric,” Zaman explains, “Failing to improve your website’s CWV score might push your website to the bottom of the search engine result pages.”
